The digital DPPstore has added two more authors to their “shelves”

The DPPstore, www.dppstore.com, is thrilled to have two more authors to highlight and four more eBooks available for purchase in their online bookstore this week.

Palm Springs, CA (PRWeb via PR Web Direct) January 17, 2006– DPPpress (www.dpppress.com) and DigitalPulp Publishing (www.digitalpulppublishing.com), a year-old e-publishing company, launched their online bookstore almost three weeks ago. The DPPstore (www.dppstore.com) features eBooks by new authors and the best eBooks from independent publishers.

The store continues to grow in volume and this week two more authors, with four books between them are available to peruse and to buy 24/7.

The Australian File (ISBN 0-9747532-8-9), The Belize File (ISBN 0-9747532-7-0), and The Emerald Head Caper (ISBN 0-9747532-6-2), are three titles now available in eBooks, by author H.R. Miller/Taylor Dth, publisher. Action abounds in each of these books with private investigator, Penn Gwinn, at the helm of each of these thrillers.

Lars Clausen’s book, One Wheel Many Spokes (ISBN 0-9719415-9-9), published by Soulscapes, takes a completely different path. Clausen’s autobiographical travels are chronicled in this eBook in a way that TV journalist Charles Kuralt would have loved--a 50-state unicycle trip from the West Coast to the Statue of Liberty and back again. Clausen shares the adventure and soulfulness of pedaling the roads of America in search of his country and himself.
