Three eBooks by a major player in the writing and publishing world are available through the DPPstore

Dan Poynter, the "godfather of self-publishing", is now gracing the cyber-shelves of the DPPstore, www.dppstore.com, available 24/7/365.

Palm Springs, CA (PRWeb via PR Web Direct) April 6, 2006– DPPPRESS (www.dpppress.com) and DigitalPulp Publishing (www.digitalpulppublishing.com), a year-old ePublishing company, are continuing to grow their online bookstore.

New authors, independent publishers, and small presses are contracting with DPP daily, helping to create a bookstore that offers an eclectic array of literary offerings.

Dan Poynter is an author of more than 100 books, has been a publisher since 1969 and is a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP). He is an evangelist for books, an ombudsman for authors, an advocate for publishers and the godfather to thousands of successfully-published books.

Three of Poynter's books, published through his company, Para Publishing, are now available through the DPPstore.

The Book Publishing Encyclopedia (ISBN: 9781568601304) is the "Book Publishing Answer Book." It has thousands of tips and references in an easy-to use alphabetical encyclopedia. Each fact, figure, resource or reference, in its 222 pages, links to a specific page on a web site for more information.

In Writing Nonfiction: Turning Thoughts into Books (ISBN: 1568601115) readers will benefit from Poynter's individualized plan as well as his system of organization, which makes writing about any topic a feasible goal.

Posted in the store, but not available to download until May, is the 15th edition of the Self-Publishing Manual: How to Write, Print, and Sell Your Own Book.

"Dan Poynter has generously guided thousands to authorship," says Robert Müller, past Assistant Secretary General of the U.N. and author of 2000 Ideas and Dreams for a Better World. Dan shows people how to make a difference while making a living by coaching them on the writing, publishing and promoting of their book.
